四、閱讀測驗【請依照段落上下文意，選出最適當的答案】

第一篇：

Imagine the typical work situation of the past. A traditional woman's workplace was the home. Her occupation was a combination of housekeeper, cook, driver, babysitter, teacher and gardener. A man's workplace was probably in a factory or an office. Factory workers, like other blue-collar workers, probably used machinery, but some amount of the work was manual. Office workers, like other white-collar workers, didn't work with machines or their hands. Instead, they dealt with ideas, numbers and people. Most of them had secretaries who typed, filed papers, and answered phones.

Technology has already caused changes in these traditional work situations, but we will see more changes in the future. The increasing use of robots—machines that do the jobs of human beings—will mean fewer jobs for blue-collar workers, who in the future will not need much education or skill, but their pay will be low.

The use of computers will continue to create enormous changes for white-collar workers. In offices, as in factories, there will be a need for fewer people, but those people will need more skills. Secretaries, for instances, will need to be able to use word processing and other computer packages. In addition, many office workers will be free to work in several locations—e.g., the office and the home. This will be possible because of computer networks—groups of connected computers. Today most men and over half of all women leave the house each day to go to work, but in the future both men and women may choose to stay home with a computer and still be able to receive a paycheck.

Experts predict that shopping habits may greatly change in the future. Some people are shopping less and less in stores and more and more with computers or mobile phones. Some consumers now order airline tickets, computer products, food, clothes and groceries, to name a few, online. These items arrive soon in the mail at their homes or workplaces.

- 【4】 51. According to the passage, the occupation of traditional women is working as a _____.
①secretary ②white-collar worker
③blue-collar worker ④housewife
【3】 52. According to the passage, most work blue-collar workers do is _____.
①to work with ideas ②to deal with people
③to work with machines ④to do mainly manual work
【2】 53. _____ in the future.
①Chances for white-collars will be fewer

- ② Robots will do more and more work
- ③ There will be more employment
- ④ Blue collars will have more work opportunities

【1】 54. In the future, white-collar workers will_____.

- ① be more flexible when choosing their work places
- ② need more management abilities
- ③ work freely at several places at the same time
- ④ face greater challenge from the blue-collar workers

【4】 55. What are the changes happening to the shopping way of people nowadays?

- ① People spend less and less money in shopping.
- ② Most of what people buy has to be with bargains.
- ③ Most people adopt mail as a way of shopping.
- ④ People begin to do their shopping via computers and smartphones.

A study of art history might be a good way to learn more about the culture than is possible to learn in general history classes. Most typical history courses concentrate on politics, economics and war. But art history focuses on much more than this because art also reflects religious beliefs, emotions and psychology. In addition, information about the daily activities of our ancestors—or of people very different from our own—can be provided by art. In short, a study of art clearly offers us a deeper understanding than can be found in most history books.

History books usually present objective information about the political life of a country, but opinions are implicit. Art, on the other hand, is subjective: it reflects emotions and opinions. The great Spanish painter Francisco Goya was perhaps the first “political” artist. In his well-known painting The Third of May, 1808, he depicted soldiers shooting a group of simple people. This depiction of faceless soldiers and their victims has become a symbol of the enormous power—and the misuse of this power—that a government can have over its people. Over a hundred years later, the symbolic images in Pablo Picasso’s Guernica express the horror of war. In summary, a personal and emotional view of history can be presented through art.

For centuries in Europe, religious art was almost the only type of art that existed. Churches and other religious buildings were filled with paintings that depicted people and stories from the Bible. Although most people were illiterate, they could still understand biblical stories in the pictures on church walls. By contrast, one of the main characteristics of art in the Middle East was (and still is) its absence of human and animal images. This reflects the Islamic belief (from the Koran) that statues are unholy. By Islamic law, artists are not allowed to copy human or animal figures except on small items for daily use (e.g. rugs and bowls). Thus, on palaces, mosques, and other buildings, Islamic artists have created unique decoration of great beauty with images of flowers and geometric forms. They have also shown great creativity and discipline in their use of Arabic writing as an art form.
